ORBANISM SPACE

The Orbanism Space at Frankfurt Book Fair 2017

With almost 300,000 visitors, more than 7,000 exhibitors; around 10,000 accredited journalists and well over 2,000 bloggers, Frankfurt Book Fair is the world's largest and most important trade fair for international publishing. It takes place in Frankfurt this year from 11–15 October.

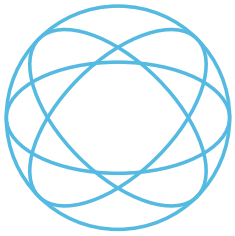

ORBANISM SPACE has been the digital meeting place in official partnership with the Frankfurt Bookfair since 2015 and provides a platform for digital content companies, 'influencers' and their communities as well as new event formats from BarCamps, to blogger meet-ups to AMAs ('Ask me Anything'). The space is very generously sized at 150 square metres and is strategically located in the popular Hall 4.1. Thanks to WiFi, charging stations for smartphones, drinks and snacks, the area is also widely used as a space to hang out by visitors and exhibitors alike. A variety of projections lend the ORBANISM SPACE its visionary look.

The five-day programme will be curated by the widely influential network experts Leander Wattig and Christiane Frohmann. The main focus is on digital issues in new constellations. A large stage is available in the ORBANISM SPACE for this purpose. Thanks to livestream communication (Facebook, YouTube, Twitter) as well as our very own social media team, all events will be available on-site and on the internet offering potential to reach a very high number of viewers.

ORBANISM SPACE offers sponsors and media partners differentiated and brand-specific channel formats.
